

Giving the Rain a Reason to Come: TEK-based Learning on the Tohono O'odham Nation

Pachynne Ignacio
Northwest Indian College
Member of the Tohono O'odham Nation

What is the Value of Validating TEK in STEM?

What is Traditional Ecological Knowledge?

- ☞ making our table and inviting others
- ☞ Indigenous realism
- ☞ community
- ☞ education

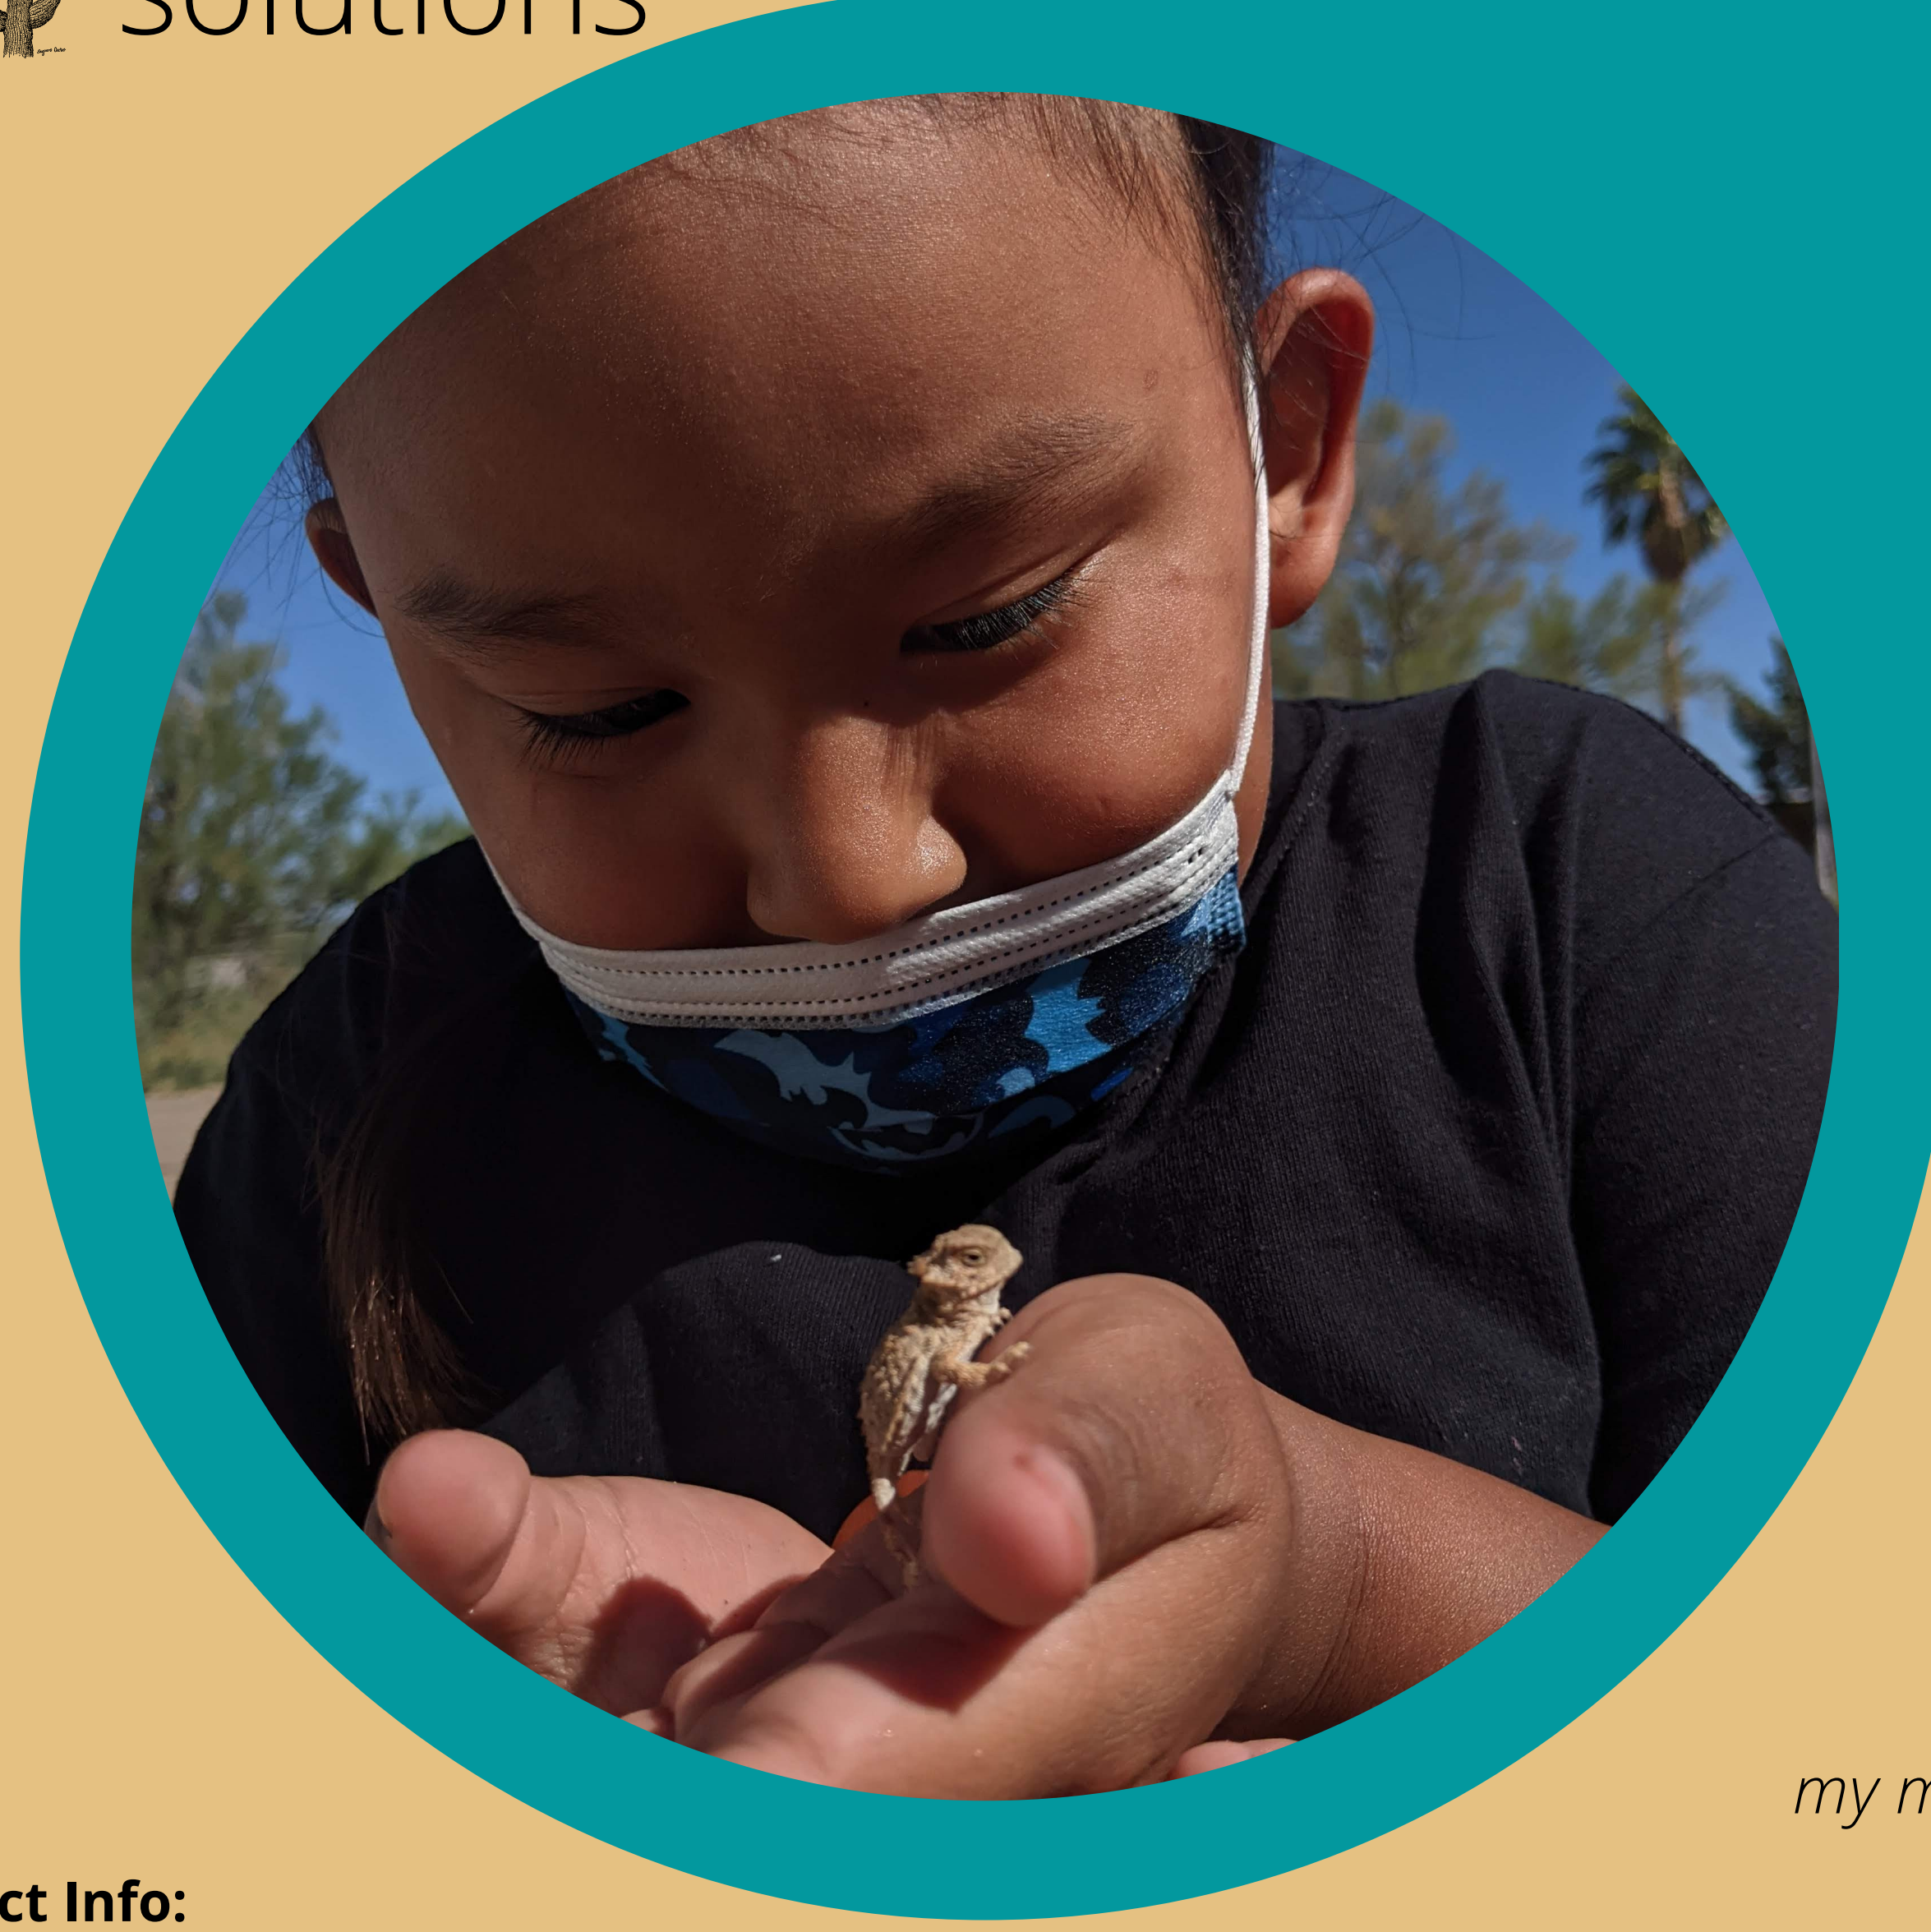

Himdag

- ☞ "About hope, not fear." Dr. Daniel Wildcat
- ☞ open-ended interviews
- ☞ sustainability
- ☞ solutions

Sudagī 'O Wud Doakag

- environmental issues ☞
- severe drought ☞
- empowerment ☞

Conservation and Restoration

- ☞ we are not separate from the earth
- ☞ reciprocated relationships
- ☞ place-based knowledge
- ☞ summer fires

Acknowledgments: I'd like to thank my soul-sister Becky Cohen for telling me about this internship, and my mentor Annalise Guthrie for guiding me throughout my research process and allowing me space to show my knowledge. And to the HERs staff and KS NSF EPSCoR Award 1656006 for bringing us all here to learn and grow together.

